megadimension neptunia vii equipment pack. megadimension neptunia vii equipment pack

Its good equipment.. I'd say buy this ONLY IF NEEDED! The items are extremely op and should be used for post game or what I did and use them only when I didn't feel like grinding. Other than that I stuck to regular items. You need to unequip them from the characters every time you get them though. The accessories like the Umio face mask are funny though. Fallen Neptune is my favourite because it's just a tiny Nep that fell into someone's head. You can only see her waist and below plus that bit a fanservice which her you know whats are showing at the proper camera angle.. Its good equipment.. I can sleep well after getting this DLC.

I also like how the equipment is super handy at the start of the game.. I'd say buy this ONLY IF NEEDED! The items are extremely op and should be used for post game or what I did and use them only when I didn't feel like grinding. Other than that I stuck to regular items. You need to unequip them from the characters every time you get them though. The accessories like the Umio face mask are funny though. Fallen Neptune is my favourite because it's just a tiny Nep that fell into someone's head. You can only see her waist and below plus that bit a fanservice which her you know whats are showing at the proper camera angle.. This DLC pack adds in armor with some superb stat boosts, some accessories that give some mild boosts to individual stats (not always the case), and lastly comes with 5 scouts.

Swirly D-Ring: 2500 HP, 900 VIT, 300 MEN

CMD-R: 1800 HP, 600 SP, 300 VIT, 900 MEN

Bloodthirsty Rosary: 4500 STR, 3000 INT, -6000 VIT, -6000 MEN

Sentai Transformation Bracelet: 1500 HP, 300 SP, 150 STR, 100 AGI, 700 VIT, 700 MEN, Fire-Light-Ice Res +35%

Evil Ring: 1000 HP, 450 SP, 150 INT, 700 VIT, 700 MEN, 100 TEC, Wind-Lightning-Dark Res +35%

Plant Bracelet: 1000 HP, 700 SP, 100 STR, 100 INT, -400 AGI, 600 VIT, 600 MEN, -100 MOV

Some additional effects with those armor pieces: Swirly D-Ring (Cuts physical damage by 10%), CMD-R (Cuts elemental damage by 10%), Plant Bracelet (You cannot move, but you automatically restore 10% HP and SP).

Accessories:

Nepgya Eye Mask: 5% Lightning and Dark res

Umio Eye Mask: 5% Ice and Dark res

Fallen Neptune: 100 LUC and VIT, description says "Reduces physical damage" and it does in fact reduce physical damage by a bit

Protruding Merry Spirit: 200 TEC

Protruding Cool Spirit: 200 STR

Protruding Timid Spirit: 200 INT

Protruding Tsun Spirit: 200 AGI

Protruding Smiling Spirit: 200 VIT

Protruding Nepgya Spirit: 100 STR + AGI

Protruding Mischievous Spirit: 100 INT + MEN

Protruding Lively Spirit: 100 VIT + MEN

Scouts (effects only):

Plutia: Nothing (I'm not sure if I have to level her up or if she just has nothing forever)

Peashy: Credits Up + Critical Rate Up +10%

Kei Jinguji: Credits Up +15%

Mina Nishizawa: Share Usage Down +25%, Recovery Up +3%

Chika Hakozaiki: Drop Rate Up +15%

All in all, I'd give this a NOT BAD V10. I got this dlc to see if I could get a little boost as I started the game to stop me from having to grind lvls like I had to in past Neptunia games. Although it allowed me to progress without the grind I was too OP and not really fun. So my advice is this DLC is really good and probably a must if you are struggling in certain sections and late game/DLC areas but don't abuse its power or use it too early.

I also recommend you buy the weapons DLC if you want to use this DLC to begin the game as OP as possible cause the equipment will just boost defensive stats and so battles will take ages to rack up damage with the default weapons.

Buy the DLC and the other weapon/processor DLCs if you want to:

- Avoid Grinding
  - Focus only on the story
  - If you are stuck on a certain boss fight
  - Enjoy being OPAF. This DLC pack adds in armor with some superb stat boosts, some accessories that give some mild boosts to individual stats (not always the case), and lastly comes with 5 scouts.
